defining the art of teaching Oct 5, 2015 Encouraged to grow and encouraged to learn by a family that embraced the deeper aspects of living, Jewish tradition, and modern pedagogy, Channee taught herself to paint and, later, studied at UCLA under

Channee feels connected to the notion of helping students relate to the deep underlying meaning of great art. Her particular focus is on groups and the visual arts. Channee has an infectious, enthusiastic, engaging and patient approach to teaching. As a teacher, Channee believes that art is an integral part of life. She is attracted to subjects that explore the relationship between culture and society. She also has a keen interest in issues of community, which are a part of her mission as a teacher. Her teaching philosophy is to teach and learn through developing one's abilities with a full understanding of the process of learning. Channee defines learning in terms of the development and growth of one's potential. Based on this vision, Channee focuses on the four components of education: classroom experience, cultural immersion, critical awareness and personal growth. As a parent and teacher, Channee knows that developing deep relationships with her students is an essential part of preparing them for the world of work. A humble and loyal person, Channee feels that true education comes from a love of learning and a desire to share knowledge. Education isn't about earning one's keep. It's about sharing the love. "An immigrant from Korea, my parents' generation experienced the draft and the Korean War. While I was growing up, my family's history helped shape my vision

Q: How to constrain the scale of a layer on a movieclip? This has been asked before but, I'm unable to find the answer that answers my question. I have a MovieClip that is scaled up to size 1,2,3,4,5,10,15,50,100,1000 etc. However, I want to constrain the scaling so that only 2 sizes are possible: 1,2 2,3 1,3 I know

I can do this in code using `scaleToMax(2)`, but is there a way to do it using a Layer (I have a movieclip that I want to scale up and there is a layer placed on top)?

Thanks A: You can do this with the below, but generally you'd want to add another constraint to the layout of the clip layer (via the properties panel) to limit it from being scaled to any size. Otherwise it will be as simple as using the scaleToMax function you mentioned. var clip:MovieClip = new MovieClip(); clip.scaleX = 1.5; clip.scaleY = 2.5; // add a constraint to this layer for it to be able to be scaled at most to 100px from its current size, no more clip.addConstraint(new VecConstraint(new Vec2(), 0, 100)); stage.addChild(clip); Parotid gland enlargement and pleural effusion as an indicator of acute exacerbation of chronic obstructive pulmonary disease. Increased parotid gland size was noted in 16 of 21 patients with acute exacerbation of chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD). Increased lung volume measured by computed tomography was found in six of these 16 patients. Increased pleural effusion was observed in nine of 21 patients, and all patients with pleural effusion had high lung volumes. These two items were not observed in patients with COPD who did not have an acute exacerbation. Parotid swelling, the most frequent symptom, was resolved within four weeks of the onset of treatment in most patients. Lung volume changes accompanied by an increase of pleural effusion correlate with the decline of parotid gland size. Increased lung volume and volume of pleural effusion in patients with acute exacerbation of COPD may be indicators of the exacerbation. Get ready for a wave of new Chromebook

---
